PRECISION CHILD HEALTH IS HERE

Why it's a game-changer

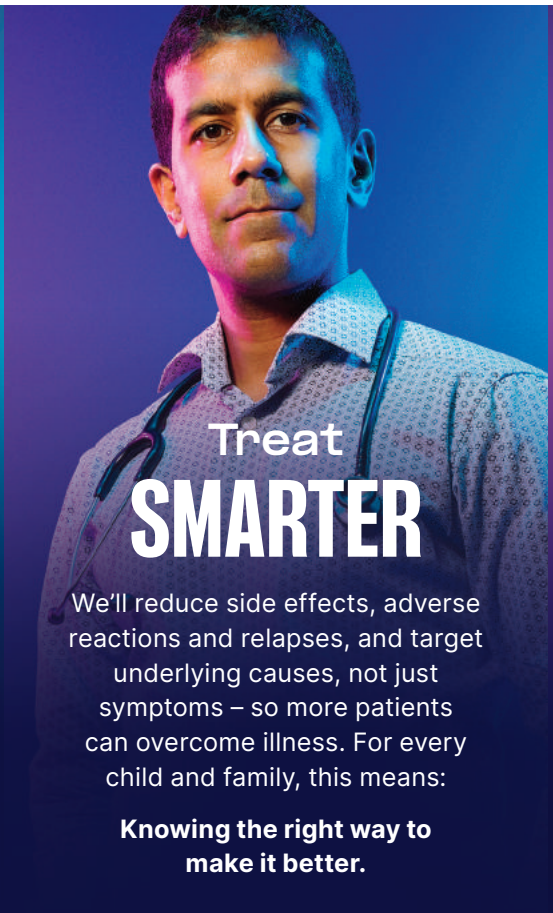

Precision Child Health (PCH) is the future because it's the end of one-size-fits-all medicine. PCH means focussing deeply, precisely on everything that makes each individual patient who they are – from their postal code to their genetic code, to every signal their body sends. Then harnessing cutting-edge science, technology, and data insights to do three big things:

Diagnose FASTER

We'll shorten the time between a patient's onset of disease and receiving a definitive diagnosis. For every child and family, this means:

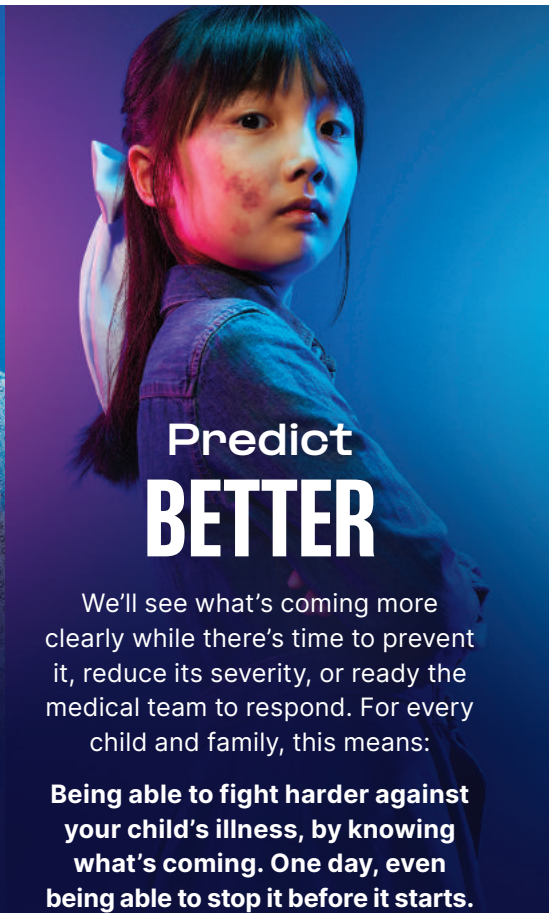

A quicker answer to "What's wrong?"

Treat SMARTER

We'll reduce side effects, adverse reactions and relapses, and target underlying causes, not just symptoms – so more patients can overcome illness. For every child and family, this means:

Knowing the right way to make it better.

Predict BETTER

We'll see what's coming more clearly while there's time to prevent it, reduce its severity, or ready the medical team to respond. For every child and family, this means:

Being able to fight harder against your child's illness, by knowing what's coming. One day, even being able to stop it before it starts.

HEALTHIER CHILDREN. A BETTER WORLD.

That's the impact of Precision Child Health. It's what will happen when we diagnose faster, treat smarter, and predict better.

FUND THE FUTURE

Precision Child Health is more than a shift in approach. It's a transformative leap in children's healthcare – one that's being defined and led by SickKids in the decades to come. Powering PCH will take unprecedented investment, support, and transformative generosity. That's why we need you to fund the future.
